QUESTION ONE

In your own words, describe what 6 o'clock closing was, and why it was first introduced in New Zealand.

Use specific evidence from any of the sources to support your ideas.

The 6 o'clock closing introduced in New Zealand for the alcohol buyers to limit their visit to the pubs. The 6 o'clock closing helps the drinkers of alcohol to lessen their pleasures for taking too much drinks and the government prioritise the safety of its citizens. According to Source A, "If you drink too much beer, you will become drunk" it impose that many of its citizens are drinking too much and it is not good to drink too much and drive or walk to the road, they can create an accident or they will be the cause of the accident. Six o'clock closing is early for some people but for some people wants to make the closing larger they did not think the safety of their self and make their lives in risk of death or accident, 6 o'clock closing can reduce problems from people who always stay late at pubs. And 6 o'clock closing impose the concerns of the government for its people //

In the 1949 referendum, the public voted to continue 6 o'clock closing.

In your own words, describe TWO different reasons why people did not want pubs to stay open later than 6 o'clock.

Use specific evidence from any of the sources to support your ideas.

First, alcohol buyers are increasing and they are giving too much problem to others when they are drunk. They can't even control their selves when they are drunk. They do risk everytime when they are driving or walking down the street. They can risk their lives too. Another reason why people did not want the pub's to stay later than 6 o'clock because of the time that needs to be allotted for rest because if the closing time is 10 or more and you are sober you are out of your mind because of the alcohol. ~~It~~ Alcohol effect lessen your reaction and alertness. Second and the last. many business person did not want their pubs or stores to be opened later than 6 o'clock because they think that they will need to pay the overtime of their employees and staffs. Six o'clock closing gives the people plenty of time to relax and sober up so they can rest at their houses and make time for another chores and for their family. //

But some pub owners want to bring back the usual 10 o'clock closing time so they can pay the wages of their staffs. //

QUESTION THREE

An important concept in History is change. In your own words, describe the factor(s) that caused people's opinions about 6 o'clock closing to change by the time of the second referendum in 1967.

ASSESSOR'S
USE ONLY

Use specific evidence from any of the sources to support your ideas.

In Source B 7th paragraph says that when men drink as fast as possible before 6 o'clock that they are always sober fast and it teaches the NZ generation to force themselves to drink so fast. Lots of incoming tourists increased and people seen the concept of the law outdated. Growing restaurants emerged to the cities and they are challenging the law that ~~they~~ it's difficult to sell alcohol while the 6 o'clock closing time is in effect. And lots of men end their work at 5 pm and they have an hour to go to the pubs as they would and headed home early. Six o'clock closing is widely disregarded by the many workers because they have a little opportunity to drink before 6. Many restaurants emerged and selling meals and alcohols. Owners want to bring back the 6 o'clock closing so they can earn much more than the early closing time.

1	A3	The candidate's response meets the requirements for Achievement at level one. The candidate has demonstrated some understanding of the question and has utilised some evidence in support of their description, however, this is limited. There is some variation in the use of source material as evidence and the description, though accurate, is limited.
2	A3	The candidate has identified two different reasons why people did not want an extension in pub opening hours. Although some evidence has been used in support of the description there is significant variation in its application. The question has been answered to some extent, however the level of detail is not consistent throughout.
3	A3	A reasonable attempt has been made to describe the factors that caused the change in public opinion preceding the second referendum in 1967. Some relevant material from the sources document has been used however there is some variation regarding direct relevance to the question. The description is generally accurate though limited in its depth.
